WHAT WE COULD BUILD

- › One main home — the subdivision covenants set the size band at 3,000–8,000 sq ft (a private rule, not the county's).
- › One guest house up to 1,500 sq ft (county cap — confirmed).
- › Plus a garage, shop, or barn as separate accessory buildings.
- › Setbacks 30 ft (front/sides) & 40 ft (rear); 30 ft height limit.
- › A wetland/wildlife strip clips the east edge — house placement matters, but ~all 24 acres are usable.

UTILITIES — EVERYTHING IS PER-PARCEL

- › Water: drill a private well (neighbors' are shallow & reliable, ~60–105 ft).
- › Sewer: private septic system — feasibility (a soil test) is the one real technical unknown.
- › Power: Fall River rural electric co-op line extension. No town water, sewer, or gas out here.

PRICE PICTURE

- › Idaho keeps sale prices private by law, so there's no public number. The assessed value (~$14k) is an agricultural figure, not market.
- › Comparable ~24-acre lots nearby suggest roughly $430k–575k — an outer bracket, not a quote. The seller is a family friend, so a direct ask is the real anchor.

easy quick, reliable Idaho-side roads · pass crosses Teton Pass — times balloon when it closes (see below).

THE TETON PASS FACTOR READ THIS

Everything in Jackson Hole — the town, the ski resort, and the airport (JAC) — is reached only over Teton Pass (WY-22). It's a steep two-lane mountain highway topping out at 8,431 ft with 10% grades. In good weather it's a scenic hour; in winter it's the weak link.

It closes. Winter storms and avalanche control shut it intermittently; no trailers are allowed Nov 15–Apr 1. In June 2024 a section collapsed in a landslide and the pass was fully closed for three weeks.

When it's closed, the detour is real: the only way around is south through Swan Valley & Alpine, which adds ~1 hour each way — a ~1-hour airport run becomes 2–2½ hours. Always check the pass before a Wyoming-side trip, especially to catch a flight.

AIRPORTS — THE HONEST RANKING

Idaho Falls (IDA) · ~1h 20m · 72 mi · no mountain pass

The reliable everyday choice. Open-highway drive west, plowed & dependable year-round. Direct flights to Salt Lake, Denver, Phoenix, Dallas, Seattle.

Jackson Hole (JAC) · ~1h 10m · 48 mi · over Teton Pass

Closest & most direct flights, but pass-dependent and premium-priced. Great when the pass is open; risky for tight winter connections (2h+ if it closes).

Salt Lake City (SLC) · ~4h 30m · 285 mi

Major hub — cheapest fares, most nonstops, international. The go-to for long-haul or budget trips; a half-day drive but never weather-stranded like the pass.

Bozeman, MT (BZN) is a ~3½-hour northern alternative with growing direct service.

Where this stands: a beautiful, buildable, permit-ready lot with quick access to Driggs and Targhee, and a scenic-but-weather-dependent hour to Jackson. Nothing is built yet — the next real steps are confirming the septic soil test, the exact price, and the recorded covenants. · Drive times are typical good-weather estimates and will be longer in snow. Regulatory and price details should be verified with Teton County, EIPH, and a title company before any purchase. Data current as of July 2026.
